Civil-Service Reform in Pennsyl-

Senator Quay achieved a great vic tory in Pennsylvania last Wednesday He seems not only to have captured the Republican State Convention, but the organization of his party. And yet he offered and secured the passage of t civil-service-reform plank, which was incorpodated into the State platform. This plank constitutes the strongest statement we have ever seen of the case of the civil-service reformers, and reads as follows:

"We earnestly insist upon a form of civil service which will prevent the en-slavement of public officers and em-ployees, and compel those appointed to preserve the peace to confine themselves to their duties, which will ensure abso-lute freedom and fairness in bestowing State, county, and municipal contracts, and will punish any form of favoritism in granting them; which will forbid the granting them; which will forbid the grant of exclusive franchises to deal in sublic necessities, comforts, conveyances and sanitary requirements, and will en-sure the organization of ability and fidelity in the public service, keeping ser-

That the Sultan will make some sort of show of refusal to sul mit to Great Britain's demands is to be expected. #### Wilson on the Tariff.

Hon. William L. Wilson, by invitation of the New York World, contributes to that paper a letter reviewing the first year's operations of his tariff bill, and giving his opinion as to what may be expected from it in the future. Mr. Wilson is satisfied with the past, and looks forward in confidence. He says, among other things, that tariff reform, although wounded in the house of its alleged friends, is triumphantly justified by its results; that the day of mad pro- face and attempted to prevent any outtection is over, and that the future is Referring to the "temporary insufficiency of revenue for current expenses," Mr. Wilson states that it is to be found in the receipts from internal revenue, and not in those from the tariff. But he also sees the way out of the embarrassment. The shrinkage in internal revenue receipts, he declares, is believed by the Treasury officials to be a thing of the past, and they confidently predict the rapid and permanent recovery of this item of our national income. As soon as that occurs, adds Mr. Wilson, there will be no trouble about Treasury receipts.

The Dispatch quotes the substance of the constitutional pro-vision which inhibits the abridgment, vision which inhibits the aerisgment, etc., on account of "race, color, or previous condition of servitude," and admits that certain States have proceeded to restrict suffrage "in such a manner as to disfranchise many negro voters." ## AN ATTEMPT TO ROB.

MR. J. O. ALLEN, OF NORFOLK, HELD UP IN MANCHESTER.

He Cried for Help and the Negroes Ran-Death of Mrs. Annie L. Howard and Miss Carrie Alltson-Other Items from the South Side.

A bold attempt at highway robbery was made in Manchester last night, and created considerable excitement for awhile in the vicinity of the occurrence. Mr. J. O. Allen, of Norfolk, came up from the City Beside the Sea on the Pocahontas yesterday afternoon. Between 8 and 9 o'clock he took a Perry-street car in Richmond and came to this city. He left the car at Cowardin avenue, and was walking down that thoroughfare towards Hull street when he was attacked by three negroes.

One of the men caught him around the cry, while the others started to go through his pockets. He pulled the man's hand from his face and called loudly for help, when the negroes broke away and ran. Mr. Allen appeared at the police station with a bleeding nose and the above ex perience. He told the officers what had happened, and from the description given the police think they know at least two of the men. It is very likely that the guilty parties will be arrested.

Mr. Allen was considerably bruised and scratched about the face, but was not otherwise hurt. His timely call for aid possibly saved him from more serious injury and also loss of his personal effects. DEATH OF MRS. HOWARD.

Mrs. Anna L. Howard, wife of Mr. W. B. Howard, whose illness has been noticed in this paper, died yesterday afternoon at her residence, 6H Huil street, in the 25th year of her age. Mrs. Howard had been in feeble health for some time, and for the last three months she had

"There were a number of gentlemen present at the experiment," said Mr. J. H. Barton yesterlay, "and all were much pleased with the test.
